Special Education - Private Schools

IDEA requires special education services for two different groups of private school students: those referred or placed by CESD and those enrolled by parents. The law, rules and requirements for these groups of students are vastly different. It is the policy of CESD to implement differentiated procedures and services for these groups.

CESD shall ensure that a student with a disability who is placed in or referred to a private school or facility by CESD is provided special education and related services at no cost to the parents, is provided an education that meets the standards that apply to education provided by CESD and has all of the rights of a student with a disability who is served by CESD.

If a student with a disability has a free appropriate public education available to him/her and the parents choose to place the student in a private school, CESD is not required to pay the cost of the student's education, including special education and related services, at the private school.

All parentally-placed private school students attending a private school within CESD's boundaries will be included in CESD's special education private school student count and the private school students for whom CESD may provide services.
