

Personal Communication Devices

Students will not possess personal communication devices, such as pagers and cellular phones in district facilities during the school day without building principal approval. A “personal communication device” is a device that emits an audible signal, vibrates, displays a message or otherwise summons or delivers a communication to the possessor.

Students in possession of a personal communication device as prohibited above are in violation of this policy and are subject to disciplinary action.

Personal communication devices are subject to being confiscated and will be released to the student’s parents.
