Student Dress and Grooming

Dress and grooming while in school is basically an individual responsibility of the student and his/her parent. When dress and grooming disrupts the learning process, while in school, for the individual students, other students or the learning climate of the school, it becomes a matter for counseling with the student and/or parent.

The learning climate of a school is important to the satisfactory progress of students. This system places major emphasis upon developing an environment where the teaching-learning process will flourish with as few constraints as possible.

The Board shall reduce any rules and regulations on dress and grooming to writing and make such rules widely available to parents and students. Any such rules and regulations must be clear and go beyond some undefined sense of individual sartorial or tonsorial good taste.

The following guidelines apply to student dressing and grooming:

1. Dress and grooming shall be clean and in keeping with health, sanitary and safety practices;
2. When a student is participating in special activities, his/her dress and grooming shall not disrupt the performance or constitute a health threat to the individual or other students;
3. Provisions for dress and grooming in special activities should arise directly out of the needs of the activity and not from some undefined sense of individual sartorial or tonsorial good taste;
4. Dress and grooming shall not disrupt the teaching-learning process. Clothes should be in good taste and should reflect the image of district. If a student's dress disrupts the teaching-learning process, it becomes a matter for counseling between the student and principal or parent;
5. Hair should be kept clean and groomed well.
