

Relations with Home-Schooled Students****

The district will furnish, at cost, basic course descriptions, state minimum standards for elementary and secondary education and when available, may furnish textbooks upon deposit of a loss/damage fee.

Eligibility for participation in interscholastic competitions is governed by Oregon School Activities Association for grades 9-12. Home-schooled students will not be eligible to participate in these activities at this level unless they comply with OSAA guidelines. A home-schooled student may participate in interscholastic activities representing the junior high and high school in which district the home-schooled student and his/her parents reside.

Home-schooled students, upon parent request, may be allowed to participate in physical education programs or other selected options based upon individual student needs except that home-schooled students will not be allowed to displace regularly enrolled students in any class. Such students must then adhere to regular attendance procedures as established by the school and must avoid disruption of said programs. Students are expected to follow all school rules and regulations when in attendance at the school site.

Parents are responsible for transportation, outside of regularly scheduled runs, for students attending selected school offerings.

Work completed by home-schooled students outside of the formal school program will be granted or rejected based upon policy JECDA - Transcript Evaluation.
