Adult High School Programs

Persons over 18 years of age (or 21 years of age if eligible for special education services) who have not graduated from high school with their class and who are residents of the district may attend Klamath Institute to work toward credit completion for a diploma. Admission into the program will be upon application to the director with high school principal approval.

Adults so admitted will be subject to all policies, procedures, rules and regulations governing students. Permission to attend may be revoked for failure to abide by these terms.
