Special Interest Materials

In general, supplementary printed materials from commercial, political, religious, or other non-school sources should have the approval of the superintendent or his/her designee before being used in the schools. This approval may be given to materials that are of obvious educational quality, which supplement and enrich text and reference book materials for specific school courses, and which are timely and up-to-date.

Advertising materials of commercial, political, or religious nature should not be displayed or distributed in the schools or on the school grounds without the approval of the superintendent or designee. Students may not be used as the agents for distributing nonschool materials to the homes without the approval of the superintendent or his/her designee.

Teachers may use special aids such as models, films, slides, pictures, charts and exhibits for educational purposes with the approval of the superintendent or his/her designee, although these materials may bear the name of a commercial business firm that provided the aid.

Educational films secured from or through commercial sources will be approved by the superintendent or his/her designee prior to use in the schools.

All copyright laws regulating the use of such material will be strictly followed.
