Jury Duty

School employees who are called for jury duty may serve without loss of pay provided that any money paid to the employee for this service is turned over to the district. Any money paid to the employee for mileage and/or similar or related expense may be retained by the employee.

Under Oregon law a person may be excused by the court from jury duty if it is shown that there is undue hardship or extreme inconvenience to the person or employer. If a lengthy trial were to be expected or grand jury duty contemplated, the Board may ask for the employee to be excused.
