Promotion and Retention of Students

Each district student will have the opportunity to develop academically, mentally, physically, socially and emotionally to the best of his/her ability. However, some students may benefit from repeating a grade; others may need the challenge afforded by skipping a grade. Therefore, the building principal, in cooperation with appropriate staff, parents and within the context of this policy, will make decisions relating to promotion and retention of students.

Note: In addition to this policy and the administrative regulations governing it, there may be additional regulations and policies governing middle school and high school promotion and/or retention. These provisions are covered in the individual school's handbook. All handbooks are adopted by the Board at its August Board meeting, making the procedures outlined therein part of the total policy of the Board and district.
