Facilities Planning

The following factors will be considered in the planning of any major renovations or new facilities construction:

1. Simplicity in a functional design;
2. Initial design to which future additions may be made without major changes in mechanical features or basic facilities;
3. Design which would convert to year-round use with a minimum of additional expense;
4. Design which would most satisfactorily accommodate and encourage the educational program;
5. Quality of materials and equipment should be sought which will be consistent with funds budgeted and assure minimum long term operational and maintenance costs;
6. Simple basic materials will be used, as long as they satisfy the necessary requirements without altering the primary aesthetic quality of the building.

Whenever possible, any construction and site development of district facilities will be planned to provide for year-round community use. Included in the planning process will be consideration of new trends in architectural design, new materials, projections of population growth in the area and any other available data which would assist the district in fulfilling the community's needs.
